

DESHA DUNNAHOE:

Bass, Flute, Vocals & Keyboards

Desha has been playing in and around the Los Angeles area for nearly 20 years, playing both keyboards and bass. She has recorded with such artists as Steve Lukather, Cherie Currie and White Lion, and has worked with producers such as Val Garay and Ritchie Zito.

Although a classically trained pianist, most people remember Desha for her solid bass work as part of Pete Bardens Mirage, especially on the 1996 tour of the UK and Europe. She joined the rest of the band along with Spocks Beard's Nick D'Virgilio to record a cover of the Genesis classic "Many Too Many" for the Magna Carta release Suppers Ready (Genesis tribute CD) in 1995.

Desha is a multi- instrumentalist whose playing and composing skills are without limit. Having played with Steve in many bands in the past, her song writing partnership with Steve has grown steadily over the years, leading to their current collaborations. Her excellent keyboard work can be heard all over Maiden Voyage, Vertigo and Camera Obscura, but with Steve Mattern joining the band she is able to return to her first love the Bass.

Desha is also active in writing and producing music for film and television via her own production company.
